Dear Reader:

One of the most attractive things about either sex is the ability to communicate. How much more so when the hands speak! Deaf people are not exotic, mysterious creatures -- they are human, with the inborn need to connect with others. But it is the expressions of American Sign Language that is foreign yet inviting.

You've done well in buying this book as a step toward learning ASL. Think of this as something that you need, as part of your inborn need to communicate. Don't be afraid to keep learning, and don't give up if your fingers tangle. Keep connecting, and if love happens on the way -- what a marvelous bonus!

Best wishes for your continued happiness,

Adrean Clark
